AN EARLY FLOOD OF USERS IS SEEN FOR MICROSOFT'S ON-LINE SERVICE

New York Times, Col. 5, Pg. 1, Sec. D

Wednesday June 28 1995

DOCUMENT TYPE: Newspaper JOURNAL CODE: NYT LANGUAGE: English

RECORD TYPE: Abstract

ABSTRACT:

Justice Department draws on data from Pipeline Communications Inc, Atlanta, which provides customer registration services for computer companies, to gain idea of how many users might subscribe to Microsoft Corp's new on-line service; Pipeline's business experience suggests that nine million people will have tried new service by end of this year, just four months after its introduction; projection is concern for big on-line services like America Online, with 2.9 million subscribers, Compuserve, with 2 million subscribers, and third-place Prodigy, with 1.7 million; existing on - line companies charge that Microsoft's plan to bundle its network with its new Windows 95 operating system will allow it an unfair advantage in the field; Microsoft has discounted such charges, noting no one will be compelled to subscribe to its on-line service and those that do will be required to pay monthly
